Hon. Charles R. Mitchell, chief justice of the trial division of the Alberta supreme court, and former Alberta cabinet minister, passed away at Edmonton on Sunday evening, aged 60. He was a native of New Brunswick, and nephew of Hon. Peter Mitchell, one of the fathers of confederation.

In connection with the War Savings 15 Minutes for Canada, the town of Hanna is going a step further, devoting the entire week to a war savings campaign. The week will be known as "Old Clothes Week," and citizens who wear new clothing will be fined, the money collected going place was Sergt. S. Seaman, of Hill-to the Red Cross. Prizes will be awarded for the oldest clothing worn.

Mr. J. R. Gresham, of Del Bonita, was a visitor with his parents here on Sunday.

Roddie Jamieson has enlisted voluntarily for active service in the army, and left for Calgary yesterday to enter training.

Miss Pansy Spears, 25, ward of Forest Ranger Monk at Willow Creek station, was found dead from a rifle wound. An inquest is being held at High River.

The minister of finance, Hon. J. L. Hisey, and the federal minister of labor, will discuss the budget and income tax in a broadcast on Sunday next from 6.30 to 7 p.m. Alberta time.

Owen Corrigan, Coal Creek miner, was killed; his wife and four children badly injured, and three other children slightly hurt, when their car left the highway and plunged over a 100-foot cliff near Fernie yesterday.

The marriage took place on Wednesday evening of Miss Olga Funke to Mr. Peter Stewart, both of Blairmore. The young couple will make their home here. Peter is second son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Stewart.

It is rather singular to note that just about the time Mr. and Mrs. Queen were leaving Blairmore, Mr. and Mrs. King should be moving in. Anyhow, Blairmore presents itself as a right royal town to anybody desiring a better place in which to live.

Vancouver athletes won the majority of events at a field and track meet at No. 3 Manning Depot, Edmonton, on Wednesday. Among Albertans there will be no need now to apply to the Lethbridge office.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE OPENS OFFICE IN BLAIRMORE

A National Selective Service office has been established in Blairmore for the purpose of issuing permits to employers under the Control of Employment Regulations, P.C. 5038, June 19, 1942.

Under the above order, all employers seeking to hire new employees must make application for a permit to do so.

In order that the district of the Crows' Nest Pass may be better served, an office of the National Selective Service has been opened in Blairmore. The temporary office is located at No. 1 Beatrice Block, opposite the Greenhill hotel, Blairmore. There will be no need now to apply to the Lethbridge office.

Donald E. Wares is the National Selective Service officer in charge at the present time. National Selective Service is operated in conjunction with the Unemployment Insurance Commission. Mr. Wares will be glad to assist anyone who seeks further information.

While American visitors to Waterton this season are few in number, yet all accommodation at the park is taxed to capacity, mostly by people from Alberta and neighboring provinces. We understand the same condition applies to Banff.

Hillcrest district has this season shipped over 800 cases of strawberries, netting the growers around $2,500. They were shipped to all parts of Alberta. Farmers claim this was only half a crop, for had it not been for the excessive moisture, the yield would have been doubled. Acreage will be increased for next year.

Thomas Yates, fish and game warden of this district, warns that under Section 22 of the fishery regulations, no person by angling shall at any time have in his possession more than forty fish (two days' catch). Fish stored in lockers come under this regulation. This information is contained in an ad space in the Pincher Creek Echo, and should also have been advertised in this district; but we are passing it on for the benefit of local anglers free of cost.

Workmen on the new road through the Frank Slide this week uncovered the remains of several victims of that catastrophe which happened 21 years ago. MERCHANTS TO ASSIST

WAR DRIVE

Every retail merchant in Alberta will be asked to suspend sale of his own merchandise for fifteen minutes on September 3rd, and sell only war savings stamps, under a scheme proposed by the National War Finance Committee.

The plan is to make the sales simultaneously throughout the province, from 3.15 p.m., which will be known as "Fifteen Minutes For Canada," to launch the fall campaign throughout the Dominion for the sale of War Savings Stamps and Certificates.

CANADIAN FIREMEN WELCOMED IN LONDON

Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, attended the reception in Trafalgar Square, London, to the first contingent of the Canadian Corps of Firefighters, who have arrived in Great Britain to serve with the National Fire Force. The detachment numbered about 40, but under the scheme, a force of several hundred will eventually be sent to Britain. Photo shows Mr. Morrison, with Vincent Massey, high commissioner for Canada, inspecting the Canadian detachment.

Canadians Are Warned

COMMISSIONER S. T. WOOD, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, recently issued a statement, warning Canadians against the spreading of rumors in wartime. We have been constantly reminded of this ever since the outbreak of war, yet it seems that too much cannot be said of the evils which may result from idle talk and lack of consideration by people in these times. Hitler has waged a "war of nerves" as part of his evil strategy and no small share of his success in the past three years has been due to his ability to cause uncertainty and distrust among the people in the lands he sought to conquer. When we listen to, or repeat, a story that belittles in any way our war effort, or our faith in our cause, we should consider how well pleased the Axis powers would be, to see those seeds of doubt sown among us.

A Total War Effort

In a war effort as large as ours mistakes may occasionally be made. With as many widespread posts to defend as the British Empire has had in this war, there are bound to be losses, some miscalculations in strategy. Yet from the knowledge of some single error in production in a munition plant, or from a reverse on one of our fighting fronts, there have grown stories transforming these into major calamities, and doing serious harm to our morale. As has been shown clearly in England and in Europe, this war is fought not by the armed forces alone, but by every man, woman and child. It is indeed a "total war." As yet the Canadian people at home have not had to face the horrors of mass bombings. There have been no great national catastrophes such as sometimes occur in wartime. We have not, as a civilian population, been asked to make sacrifices in proportion to those nearer to the enemy and threatened with attack. One of the ways in which we can serve, however, is in stamping out rumor and doing our part to keep up morale.

Value Of Unity

In England, the Ministry of Information has recently released a motion picture dealing with this subject. The title of the picture is "The Next of Kin Have Been Notified," and it shows in a poignant story, how careless talk may cause the loss of many lives, a loss quite needless and therefore all the more regrettable. With our Allies, we belong to a group known as the "United Nations." The fall of the smaller nations of Europe, one by one, drove home to every one the vast importance of the word "united." The way will be long and hard, but there is no doubt that with the great resources they command, and with the great moral issues for which we fight, the United Nations will, in the end, triumph. Let no one in Canada doubt that, and let no one countenance or repeat any word that may sow seeds of doubt here. Commissioner Wood has long served the Canadian people and his advice now should be heeded by all.

Are Well-Equipped

Russian Guerrillas Took What They Needed From Nazi Invaders. Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, reporting on a year of activity by Smolensk province guerrillas, said a band led by a patriot called "Batyra," meaning Sandy, captured 300 villages and killed 6,000 Germans.

A year ago the partisans had only hunting weapons. Now numbering in the thousands, they possess machine-guns, automatic rifles and seven tanks captured from the invaders, the newspaper said.

A First Class Job

Queen Elizabeth Used Automatic

The Queen carried her first tin of fruit and received full credit for "a perfectly sealed canister" during her visit to the women's institute camp unit at Reading, England.

She watched villagers arriving with their baskets of home-grown fruit and when she saw cans of plums sealed with an automatic sealer she asked to be allowed "to try her hand."

Within 30 seconds Her Majesty had produced a perfectly-sealed tin which will be sent her for her own use.

Let's get down to cases. Forget all about proteins and carbohydrates and starches and vitamins. Being well-nourished is a habit which is by no means confined to the well-to-do. The vitamin chart issued free by the Health League of Canada, Western Division, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, (Have you written for your copy?) says you secure the essentials by eating one serving each of meat, potatoes, green-leaf or yellow vegetable, oatmeal porridge or whole wheat cereal, one egg, six slices of real whole wheat bread, one glass of tomato, orange or grapefruit juice, and three glasses of milk. Simple, isn't it? And economical!

Here's a week's adequate meals, at the least possible cost. And the first week is NOT the hardest. It's easy:

DAY	BREAKFAST	LUNCH OR SUPPER	DINNER
Sunday	Tomato Juice Rolled Oats with Wheat Germ Toast, Butter Marmalade Coffee, Cocoa	Peanut Butter Sandwiches Carrot Strips Sliced Orange Gingerbread Cocoa	Rolled Pot Roast Of Beef and Gravy Boiled Potatoes Mashed Turnips Butterscotch Pie Tea, Milk
Monday	Tomato Juice Rolled Oats with Wheat Germ Toast, Butter Jam Coffee, Cocoa	Cream of Corn Soup Real whole wheat Bread and Butter Cabbage and Carrot Salad Canned Plums, Milk	Cold Pot Roast Pan Fried Potatoes Buttered Beans Gingerbread Brown Sugar Sauce Tea and Milk
Tuesday	Stewed Prunes Rolled Oats with Wheat Germ Toast, Butter Marmalade Coffee, Milk	Macaroni with tomato Sauce Fruit Cup Real whole wheat Bread and Butter Milk	Sauages Buttered Cabbage Celery Curls Cornstarch custard pudding with jam Tea and Milk
Wednesday	Orange Cracked Wheat with Toast, Butter Jam Coffee, Cocoa	Cream of tomato soup Beet and celery salad Carrot Strips Whole Wheat Muffins Butter Tea and Milk	Creamy Eggs Buttered Turnip Mashed Potatoes Stewed Rhubarb Tea and Milk
Thursday	Tomato Juice Rolled Oats with Wheat Germ Toast, Butter Marmalade Coffee, Cocoa	Vegetable Soup Toast and Butter Carrot Strips Chocolate Pudding Tea and Milk	Liver Loaf or Braised Liver Baked Potatoes Buttered Beans Jelly Powder Dessert, Tea, Milk
Friday	Stewed Prunes Rolled Oats with Cracked Wheat with Toast, Butter Wheat Germ Toast, Butter, Jam Coffee, Milk	Potato & Onion Soup Cabbage and Peanut Butter Salad Real Whole Wheat Bread and Butter Cocoa	Fish with Parsley Sauce Cold or Hot Tomatoes Buttered Carrots Junket Tea, Milk
Saturday	Tomato Juice Rolled Oats with Wheat Germ Toast, Butter Marmalade Coffee, Cocoa	Poached Eggs on Toast Spinach Chocolate Bread Pudding Tea and Milk	Beans with Tomato Sauce Carrot Strips Canned Peaches Toast and Butter Tea, Milk

Note: Real whole wheat bread to be served at each meal. For the diet to be adequate, adults should drink milk for lunch or supper. Cod liver oil is necessary to supply sufficient vitamins A and D.

After you have lived on this diet for a week, try a 500-word essay describing either the economies you have effected or the benefits you have derived. The Health League of Canada will award a ten dollar ($10.00) prize to the writer of the best essay.

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In Our Canadian Army.
By Alan Maurice Irwin

Yesterday from the street I met a tall, bronzed young man in civilian clothes. His face seemed familiar. He walked with his shoulders back and his head up. He smiled at me and, automatically, since I like smiles, I returned the smile. Then I walked on puzzling slightly as to why the stranger had smiled.

Suddenly it struck me. He was no stranger! He was the Company Sergeant-Major! For two weeks we had been working together, smiling each other when the occasion arose and comparing notes as to the condition of this recruit's feet, that one's appalling habit of drinking ice cold fatty pop and eating biscuits instead of lining up for his meals like a soldier.

But it emphasized two things: the difference wrought in a man by the clothes he wears; and the thin veneer that separates soldier from civilian.

It is a good thing that the veneer is so thin. Because it is not beyond the bounds of possibility that a sudden change from civilian to soldier may become necessary for many of us, no, most of us!

I said last week that the Reserve Army of today is very different from the Militia of "last year's war" years. It is, and it must be. It must have the support of every man able to meet the physical requirements.

Look at what a reserve army has done for Russia. That is what our Reserve Army must do for us. It will make demands—heavy demands—upon our spare time. It will call for two, or three evenings a week for drill, training or special instruction. It will call for ten Sundays.

It will call for two weeks in camp every year, the whole totalling fifty-five days of training out of 365.

And that, actually, is considerably less time than the average citizen wastes on dancing, movies, ball games, hockey-matches and golf.

A mighty low insurance premium to pay, isn't it?

Not so long ago a man said to me quite seriously, "You people have no right to put alarm-pieces in the paper about street-fighting in Halifax or Quebec or Montreal or Vancouver. That's alarmist stuff, it lowers morale."

It made me boil. He has a "C" classification for his car. He squawks about his high income tax on earnings that are much greater than those of the war and he has time and energy available for golf.

But he couldn't, or wouldn't see the point when I suggested to him that if every-one in Russia had felt the same way about it Nazis would have been in Moscow a year ago!

We're really got to put our backs into this war. Knitting a few socks or sweaters, or sending cigarettes overseas, or buying war savings regularly isn't enough. It has to be an all-out effort.

In Hong Kong young Canadians died. In England thousands of young Canadians are clamping at the bit while they train for the job they volunteered to do.

If it falls to us to defend the land they plan to come back to are we going to fall because the movies or the golf-links were more important?

Even in the face of daily stories of repeated reverses on many fronts there still exist too many people who look upon the war as something that is going on "away over there". Do they think "it can't happen here"?

For nearly three years we have been at war now, and in all that time they haven't stepped on British soil," says your specialist in rose-colored glasses. He overlooks Hong Kong and Singapore! He doesn't want to take a ruler in his hand and compare the distance between Japan and Malaya with the distance between Norway and Nova Scotia.

Try it yourself—appalling close, isn't it? That's why we members of the Individual Citizen's Army must play our part whether that part be volunteering for Active Service, enlisting in the Reserve Army or just being good soldiers behind the men behind the guns.

Trained or not, if an invader sets his foot upon Canadian soil all of us—men, women and children would set out to do what we could—there's no doubt of that.

Even the man who illegally increases rents, the shopkeeper who raises his prices above the ceiling, the sugar-hoarder, the gasoline cheat—these were would take up arms to defend their homes.

Why, then, one is bound to wonder, must it be necessary for us to set up a Wartime Prices and Trade Board? What is it that makes war no remote that people like that must be brought into the courts every day to answer to charges of impeding the war effort!

The most disheartening thought about it is that these offenders against regulations set up to preserve our economic structure are not only illiterate "small traders"—they include big corporations.

Against them, and they are invaders of Canada don't forget, we need the private soldiers of the Individual Citizen's Army whose duty it is—for their own self-preservation—to send word of infractions of the price regulations to the nearest office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Inflation is inflation—we must be on our guard!

Ottawa Moves To Cut Down Train Travel

Ottawa.—Munitions Minister Howe has announced elimination of certain reduced fares on Canada's railroads, and warned that unless unnecessary civilian travel is limited on a voluntary basis "further" restrictions may become necessary.

Effective at midnight, Aug. 31, the following are prohibited:

1. Reduced fares on trips between eastern and western Canada;
2. Reduced fares between the prairies and the Pacific coast;
3. Special fares for convention groups.

Official spokesman said that travel will be carried at ordinary fares," said Mr. Howe, who issued his statement as acting minister of transport.

The new order does not affect in any way train travel at reduced rates by members of the armed forces. In addition to banning reduced fares on trips between eastern and western Canada and the prairies and the coast, the ban also applies to through trips from eastern Canada to the west coast.

Official spokesman said there is no intention to discontinue reduced fare tickets sold before Aug. 31, with round-trip provisions good for some length of time after that date.

There was no indication in the statement as to what "further restrictions" might be in prospect unless there is voluntary curtailment of unnecessary civilian travel.

Mr. Howe's statement said the elimination of reduced fares was taken to conserve steel, oil, coal, and other vital materials, and to assure adequate transportation facilities for the movement of munitions, other war supplies, and the armed forces on duty.

"Civilian travel is on the increase," said Mr. Howe.

"The traffic now is so heavy that unless voluntary curtailment of conventions and other unnecessary travel proves a sufficient answer, further restrictions may become necessary, so that the war program may not be hindered."

Imposition of the new order was delayed until Aug. 31 to avoid inconvenience not only to railroads but also to private individuals and convention groups who have planned trips far in advance, spokesmen said.

RAIDERS BUSY

Surface And Undersea Boats Attacking Shipping In South Atlantic

London.—A large-scale offensive by German surface and submarine raiders against the heavy and increasingly important Allied merchant traffic in the south Atlantic has been predicted by informed British naval sources.

Recent reports from neutral and Axis sources indicated, it was said, the attacks already had started.

These sources cited Rio de Janeiro's receipt of 805 messages reporting an enemy surface raider 1,000 miles off the Brazilian coast and the German high command's claim that 45,231 tons of shipping bound for Egypt had been sunk recently by German submarines off the American and West African coasts.

Not only is the south Atlantic the chief supply route to India and Egypt but under present conditions it is probably the most important means of sending supplies to Russia via Iran.

Wheat and beef from South America also traverse the new danger area en route to Britain.

A naval source reported a number of armed Axis merchant raiders had reached the south Atlantic from ports on the Bay of Biscay since the fall of France.

FAST WORKERS

Kenora, Ont.—The Native Sons of Canada urged the Dominion government not to allow immigration after the war until men and women who were the Canadian uniform have been given full opportunity to re-establish themselves.

CANADA AT WAR

But People Hardly Realize It Opinion Of Wing Commander

Montreal.—Wing Cmdr. N. W. Timmerman of the R.A.F., Canadian-born winner of the Distinguished Service Order and Distinguished Flying Cross, said in an interview that Canada "doesn't even know there is a war" and "is still thinking in terms of dollars and cents without realizing her life is at stake."

Wing Cmdr. Timmerman stopped here before returning to his post as chief instructor at the newly-formed bombing operational unit at Fennell Ridge, N.S.

"Not until Canadians have experienced their first air raid and seen air services in action will they know Canada is at war," said the officer.

U.S. Forces Are In India Mainly To Assist China

Washington.—American armed forces are in India solely to prosecute the war against the Axis and have been warned to avoid scrupulously any participation in internal troubles there, the state department said.

The presence of American forces in India, the department revealed, is primarily to assist China.

In the event of disturbances where they are stationed they are authorized to resort to defensive measures only, "should their own personal safety or that of other American citizens be endangered."

The text of the state department's announcement follows:

The following statement of this government's policy has been made a part of the orders to the American military forces in India:

1. The sole purpose of the American forces in India is to prosecute the war of the United Nations against the Axis powers. In the prosecution of the war in that area the primary aim of the government of the United States is to aid China.
2. American forces are not to indulge to the slightest degree in activities of any other nature unless India should be attacked by the Axis powers, in which event American troops would aid in defending India.

3. American forces in India will exercise scrupulous care to avoid the slightest participation in India's internal political problems, or even the appearance of so doing.
4. In event of internal disturbances, American forces will resort to defensive measures only, should their own personal safety or that of other American citizens be endangered, or for the necessary protection of American military supplies and equipment.

FOR THE DURATION

War Conditions Forcing Banks To Close Some Of Their Branches

Montreal.—M. St. Pierre, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, said war conditions are forcing all banks to concentrate business in a fewer number of branches.

"Their first step has been to exchange accounts or close 80 branches in the most important centres all over the country, where this could be done without too much inconvenience to their customers," he said.

Mr. St. Pierre said that 23 of the 80 bank branches in the process of being closed down for the duration are in the Montreal district.

Kryolite Mine In Greenland Shipped To United Nations

Edmonton.—Henrik de Kauffman, Danish ambassador to U.S., in an interview here said Greenland was playing a vital part in aiding the United Nations.

The only kryolite mine in the world is located in Greenland he said, and shipments of this product, used in connection with aluminium, to the U.S. and Canada have troubled since Greenland bases were taken over by Allies in April, 1941.

The ambassador, who is accompanied by Mrs. de Kauffman, is making a tour of Western Canada visiting various Danish communities.

WAITING FOR LIST

British Makes Further Inquiries About Prisoners Held By Japan

London.—Inquiries have been undertaken by the British government in the hope of ascertaining from Tokyo how and when the Japanese will send forward a full list of prisoners of war and civilian internees now in their custody, it was announced.

A full list was to have been delivered by one of the two diplomatic exchange ships which recently reached Laurence Marques, Portuguese West Africa, from Japan, but it was not aboard.

MATERIALS SCARCE

Washington.—War plants which are running far ahead of schedule may be closed deliberately or slowed down for a time to ease the drain on scarce materials, under plans now being considered by the U.S. war production board. It was disclosed by an official who requested that his name be withheld.

RUMORS DENIED

Administrator Says Canada Has No Excessive Stocks Of Sugar

Ottawa.—S. H. Noble, sugar administrator for the wartime prices and trade board, described as "false and absurd" rumors which he said were being circulated that excessive stocks of sugar are available in Canada and that sugar rationing is therefore not necessary.

"Anyone circulating mischievous rumors of this sort is undermining our war effort," he said in a statement, "and giving backdoor aid to the enemy for fostering distrust and discontent among the people at home."

For instance, Mr. Noble said, one "wild story" going the rounds alleges there are 400,000,000 pounds of sugar in southern Alberta warehouses, with a new crop expected shortly.

The administrator said that in fact Alberta's total sugar production in the last five years did not total 400,000,000 pounds and there would be no more than a normal carryover this year. Surplus stocks had been shipped to Ontario—"the first time in history that Alberta sugar has been marketed east of Winnipeg."

"Since at least three-quarters of our requirements of sugar must be brought from overseas," he said, "it will be obvious that extra demands for sugar above our absolute minimum requirements will be filled only by unnecessarily risking vital tonnage and gallant seamen's lives."

WOMEN REPAIR SHIPS

Vancouver.—Six women are now employed by the North Van Ship Repairs Limited shipbuilding plant at the Temple place north Fraser river. The "Machinists" union said the women will be admitted to the union on equal basis with the men.

Navy Has Had Good Luck In Sub Hunting

Ottawa.—The Royal Canadian Navy apparently has enjoyed good submarine hunting in recent weeks, according to Navy Minister Macdonald.

He was commenting on a message of congratulation sent to the navy by Rt. Hon. A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, and said the message arose largely from the navy's trans-Atlantic convoy work.

"Since submarine hunting was the principal business of the Canadian navy it might be presumed the hunting had been 'good'."

The minister gave no details of successes against submarines or of sinking by submarines.

Recently returned from a trip around naval establishments on the East coast, the minister said much building of new barracks and new training facilities is under way. At one point, present development will provide accommodation for 5,000 men.

At another place where training of new entries, physical training for officers and instructors, gunnery and anti-submarine training is to be carried on, 2,000 men will be installed by December. When completed, accommodation will be available for 6,000.

Another important station for operations, rather than training work, will accommodate 1,000 officers and men.

"The total strength of the navy is roughly 40,000," said the minister, "and we have new men coming in at the rate of about 1,000 a month."

The navy has between 400 and 500 ships, has commissioned about 40 new ships this year, and has about 60 more under construction. About 160 ships are being built in Canada for the Royal Navy.

New Six-Month Ration Books Available Soon

Ottawa.—The wartime prices and trade board, furnishing Canadian consumers with a detailed description of the six-month ration books which will be distributed Sept. 7, said the only commodities which will be coupon-rationed at that time are tea, coffee and sugar.

Emergency coupons included in the ration books, the board said, are included "solely as a precaution" and "no decision whatever" has been made to use them for any commodity.

Officially designated "Ration Book No. 1," the new books contain five colored series of coupons. The first, printed in red, has the word "sugar" printed on each of 13 coupons, each good for two weeks' supply.

The second, printed in green, is designated "Spare A" and will be used for tea and coffee, replacing letters coupons now in use.

"It should be noted," the board said, "that after Sept. 7 each tea-coffee coupon from the new ration book will cover a two-week supply—that is, two ounces of tea or eight ounces of coffee, putting them on the same basis as the sugar coupons."

Tea-coffee coupons will not be included in new books issued to children under 12 years of age. The three remaining series of coupons comprise one page of 13 coupons based on a two-week ration allowance, and two series of two pages or 26 coupons. These are included for emergency purposes, the board said, just as extra coupons on temporary ration cards were used for tea and coffee.

Each book will bear a serial number and the address of the nearest ration office. Consumers are urged to write the office in case of change of name or address and to report lost or defaced books.

The board's word to men and women joining the armed forces is this: "Take the book with you; it will be asked for."

Before any coupons in the new books may be used, holders are required to write their name and address and the serial number of the book on each page of coupons, along with their signatures on a space provided inside the back cover.

A detachable postal card at the back of the book, addressed to the nearest ration office, contains spaces for name and address, age if under 18, and the book's serial number.

From April 21 Sweden was placed on a meat ration of 8½ ounces a person weekly.

It's Good—If It Works

Inventor Andrew Sedmieser, of Oakland, stands beneath movable engine of the low-winged monoplane which he has spent 12 years in constructing. When the pilot wants to go up, all he has to do (according to Sedmieser) is move the motor until it points upward. This gives propeller more pull, inventor claims, and speeds rise. The tail tips go up at same time, helping immediate rise. All of the plane is in his back yard; it has never been in air.

FREEDOM A MIGHTY SWORD

We Americans can rightly be proud of the fact that we are a peace-loving people; that our aim as a nation is to strive to improve human welfare, with freedom and justice for all. Such a people is always slow to anger, tolerant and patient. But when patience is exhausted, a peace-loving people can turn its peace-time skills into weapons of fierce and righteous wrath. There is only one way such a nation could be enslaved. That would be through propaganda that misleads, through lack of knowledge and of truth. America's greatest strength is freedom of the printed word; to give the people truth, truth that builds freedom of thought, and of word, and of vision. This great freedom tempers the steel out of which a nation and a people can forge mighty swords.—In "Who's Who," Brooklyn, N.Y.

RUNNING ON BRANDY

In the sequel of the gasoline shortage now rationed at four gallons per month, a Chilean inventor has produced a new type of carburetor able to cause the regular explosion of 80% alcohol, 15% gasoline and 5% secret formula.

"Alcoholine," as he calls it, has been running a well loaded truck from Santiago to Valparaiso, about 100 miles, with great success and a corporation is being formed to exploit the invention. Necessary alcohol will be produced from the grape refuse of wine and brandy industries and should not be costlier than common gasoline.

We expect to hear the passers-by reaction to the exhaust gases.

THRILL OF A LIFETIME

Godfrey Winn, well-known aviation writer on the London Sunday Express, recently visited the plane-ferry pools in England, and flew with one of the women who pilot aircraft from factories to R.A.F. bases.

Top rating for a pilot who can handle any kind of plane is five. A first officer among women pilots is ranked four plus. That means she can fly anything except the very heavy four-engine planes. Rankings are listed as on merchant ships—third, second and first officers.

Winn relates one incident on his trip with pilot Mrs. Patterson:

"She said suddenly: 'Do you mind if we come down a bit? On this route we have to pass over my boy's prep school, and he's got German measles.'"

"So down we came, not flying too low, but low enough for a small boy aged ten, lying in bed, to hear the engines and say to himself: 'That's my mother.' His father a pilot in the Fleet Air Arm, his mother a pilot in the A.T.A.! He must be the proudest kid in the school, I thought."

"No, no, no," replied the man, "he's caught a mouse."

A VANISHED FRIEND

Around the corner I have a friend
In this great city that has no end.
Yet the days go by and the weeks
rush on,

And before I know it a year has gone;
And I never see my old friend's face.
For life is a swift and terrible race.
He knows that I like him just as well
As in the days when I rang his bell
And he rang mine. We were younger then.

And now we are busy, tired men;
Tiring of playing a foolish game;
Tired of striving for money and fame.
"Tomorrow," I say, "I will call on Jim
Just to show that I'm still thinking of him."

But tomorrow comes and tomorrow
goes,
And the distance between us grows and grows.

And the corner—yet miles and miles away—

"Here's a telegram, sir, Jim died to-day!"

And that's what we get and deserve
in the end—

Around the corner, a vanished friend.
—By Carl Hutherson in an exchange.

NEWS FROM EDMONTON

(T. B. Windrose)

Edmonton, Aug. 18.—The date for the Edmonton by-election has been set by the provincial government for September 22nd. This was announced shortly after Premier Aberhart's return from his brief holiday at the coast. Nominations must be made by September 12th.

It is stated by government officials that the cost of this by-election, forced on the electors of the capital by the C.C.F. party's ambitions to win a seat in the legislature, will be around $18,000. That amount under normal circumstances would not be much, but at the present time, when Canadians in the province and out of it are straining every nerve to meet the increased cost of living, and the burden of war costs through heavy taxation, the infliction of an election in a party effort to wrest the seat in the legislature from the group that held it, and normally would have held it until the end of the life of this legislature, is very like an ungratifying blunder, to put it mildly.

In this the Social Credit government is not to blame. For once they have shown tact and decency in the matter, and it indicated that no contest would have been held if the C.C.F. hadn't jumped into the fray with both feet, by nominating Mr. Elmer E. Roper as candidate. Mr. Roper has had long political ambitions and this may possibly be the time when he will be cured of them.

The vacancy in the legislature occurred with the death of Mr. D. M. Duggan, who held it as an Independent.

Income Tax is Fair to All

In the fourth year of war, Canada will need almost four billion dollars. This is the equivalent of nearly $350 from every man, woman and child in the country.

Even with the highest income tax in history, 52% only of the money Canada needs will be raised by taxation. The rest will have to be borrowed by means of War Savings Stamps, Certificates and Victory Bonds.

Starting with the first pay period in September representing September earnings only, your employer is required by law to deduct your income tax from your wages or salary, and send it promptly to the Government. Everybody will pay his share as he goes along.

It's going to be tough . . . but not too tough! Here are some good features:

1. You will pay as you earn, so that you will not be faced with a large lump sum payment next year.
2. The National Defence Tax already deducted during the first 8 months of this year has been taken into account in the Table of Tax Deductions.
3. Though the income tax rates show a sharp increase over last year, a large portion of this increase is actually savings, to be paid back to you with interest after the war.
4. The money you are paying for life insurance premiums, annuities, principal repayments on your home, or into a pension fund may be deducted (up to a certain maximum) from the savings portion of your income tax. In many cases this may be sufficient to make payment of the savings portion of the tax unnecessary.

Unless you are single, without dependents, and not making payments of the types mentioned in paragraph 4 above, you should file Form TD-1 with your employer. Otherwise, you may not be allowed the credits to which you are entitled. DO NOT DELAY. File Form TD-1 with your employer at once so that you may get the full allowances from the start.

Programme Advertising Scored

The money that goes into what is supposed to be goodwill programme and generally wasted advertising is enormous, comments J. V. McAree in one of his "half-past" columns in the Toronto Globe and Mail. He adds: "We were struck by a recent pamphlet issued by the Toronto Better Business Bureau. It says: 'The straddling days are over. Now more than ever before every dollar must count. Whether it is given to a war charity, a mission or a charity to the home front—or whether it is given for advertising in a programme, year book, convention book, or to a labour, veteran, civil service, police, military, or other publication of a similar nature, you can aid in our war effort by refusing to be deceived or defrauded. . . . By getting the facts before you buy or before you advertise you will not only save a very considerable sum from being wasted, but you will be making available a substantial sum of money for necessary purposes.'"

Old Razor Blades

Are Collected in London By The Thousands

I saw at Holborn Viaduct station today men passengers from the business trains dumping old razor blades into a box on the platform, to which attention was drawn by a blackboard. No doubt some of the blades had proved too much for their owners' chins only this morning.

Twenty-five thousand blades have been deposited in this box, 5,000 of them last week. In money they are valued at £8, which goes to the R.A.F. Benevolent Fund. Their real worth is their value as high-grade scrap.

To the average man old blades are the most difficult of "junk" to dispose of, for they are dangerous to leave about casually. If every London station copied Holborn Viaduct, the problem would be profitably solved.—London Evening Standard.

Messacre Still Goes On

Gestapo Killing Jewish Men, Women And Children In Warsaw

A dispatch to the New York Post says: "A massacre, the extent of which is not yet known, is going on in the Warsaw ghetto, where Gestapo agents have been slaughtering aged men and women as well as children because they are unfit for hard labor behind the German lines. Information received by Polish government circles in London disclosed that the Gestapo ordered all Jews to remain indoors one evening, following which raiding parties combed the ghetto, selected the abhorred men for labor service and began the slaughter of the remainder.

The program, it was learned, started after Polish police had been withdrawn and replaced by Lithuanian sharpshooters, known as Saulis, and by Latvian and Ukrainian auxiliary police.

The Germans had announced a few days earlier that all Jews would be deported from Warsaw to the eastern provinces and two trains, crammed with Jewish men, left ostensibly for the front.

However, a Polish government spokesman said, the deportations were merely a pretext for mass extermination, since the deportees had been ordered to take with them not only their hand luggage but jewelry which could be taken from them before or after their execution in the woods near Warsaw. The 6,000 selected for deportation would doubtless be executed, this spokesman said.

The spokesman was convinced that the policy of mass execution applied previously to numerous smaller places in Poland had now been extended to Warsaw, with the aim of systematic annihilation of the entire Jewish population.

JACOB'S VISION OF GOD

Golden text: I am with thee, and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest. Genesis 28:15.
Lesson: Genesis 27, 28.
Devotional reading: Isaiah 61:8.

Explanations and Comments
Jacob's Vision of God, Genesis 28:10-15. Read Genesis 27:1-28:5. Jacob was on his way to Haran and quite by accident, it would seem from the explanation He lighted upon certain place, he came to a hillside near Bethel where he remained all night. A stone answered for a pillow as he lay down to sleep.

The last things his eyes had gazed upon before falling asleep must have been the rocks and stones that were so abundantly strewn about him, and in his dream they naturally shaped themselves into a ladder, or flight of stone steps. (In Hebrew and also in Arabic the word translated "ladder" means a "staircase.") On Jacob's dream-ladder the angels of God were ascending and descending, symbolizing the thought that there is communication between God and man. Before this time Jacob knew that God is; here he learned that God is accessible. While he was at home, when his life was made comfortable by the favoritism of Rebekah his mother, there was no room in his thoughts for a revelation from God. Alone on the rocky hillside, with no one to help him, God found him susceptible to divine influence. Providence often thus prepares the way for revelation.

In Jacob's dream Jehovah appeared as ladder and spoke words of encouragement and hope. Just as the stony landscape where he was lying was woven into his dream, so were the words of his father Isaac's parting blessing: "God Almighty bless thee . . . and give thee the blessing of Abraham that thou mayest inherit the land of thy sojournings, which God gave unto Abraham." In his dream he heard God promise that he should inherit the land, that his descendants should be "as the dust of the earth" in number, and that in him and in them "all the families of the earth should be blessed." And then God added the assurance of his companionship and guidance: "And behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest."

The Impression Made by the Dream, Genesis 28:16, 17. Jacob thought of God as belonging to the Israelites alone, and not to be found beyond the limits of their land, and on awakening he exclaimed in surprise, "Surely Jehovah is in this place, and I knew it not." And then he was terrified and cried (in Moffatt's translation), "What an awesome place! This is the very dwelling of God, a very opening into heaven!"

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

CAMPS FOR CHILDREN

"If I were a parent, I would be more careful in selecting a camp for my child than I would be in selecting any other group of which he might be a member," states Dr. Mary L. Northway in an article in the current issue of "Health," organ of the Health League of Canada. Dr. Northway makes some suggestions to guide parents in selecting a camp for their children this summer.

"I would read with care the catalogue of 'many camps'; she warns, 'From these I would pick out the ones, not that promised miracles for my boy or girl, but those that told me in some detail what the boy's or girl's daily life at the camp was going to be like; who was going to look after him and what was expected of me as a parent in co-operating with the camp. Then I would go to see the directors of the camp and ask them some very detailed questions.'"

These questions, Dr. Northway gives in detail. She would ask about health in day by day camp living, about the discipline required, whether the child would receive enjoyment through working and living creatively there, who would be responsible for out-of-camp trips, and finally she would ask whether the camp was a member of the Camping Association. "Parents have entrusted their children to camp directors and seldom has that trust been betrayed," Dr. Northway states. "It is a challenge now to parents to make all camping as good as the best camping, by being interested in the camping movement, by being sympathetically critical of what the camps are trying to do and by working together with the camp directors on the magnificent task of guiding the development of children."

And Dr. Northway concludes: "For it is the children who, by living co-operatively, courageously and creatively with one another, will be able to reconstruct our broken world."

Indicated By Color

Light Honey Has Less Flavor Than The Dark Variety

Color in honey is an indication of flavor—the lighter the color, the less the flavor.

Research has shown that darker honey has more accessory food value because it contains more minerals, especially iron, copper, and manganese. Among the "lighter-colored" honeys are those from orchard blossoms, maple, basswood, and clover. The darker honeys with their strong, hearty flavor include those from dandelion, golden rod, and buckwheat, ranging from lighter amber to dark reddish brown.

ANNE TEDLOCK BROOKS

CHAPTER XXXV.

Ranny went through the kitchen door into the ancient wine cellar, followed its tunnel and hastened through a trapdoor that old black Cran had told them of in one of her stories. It had been made especially so that the family and the servants could escape into an orchard, if a surprise raid were made on them during war days. Tamar and her father followed him to the opening of the tunnel and waited to see his flashlight beam playing along in the darkness until he came to the heavy outer door.

Ranny opened it carefully, afraid that the creak of its hinges would give away his presence. For a strange moment he thought this might be one of Tamar's and his childhood adventures into imaginary danger. The barberry bushes had grown so closely over the door that he had to push them aside to crawl out.

If any one had been watching the house they had not seen any light from an opening-door. Ranny crawled quietly around the hedge into the drive leading past the stables. Keeping well under cover of the trunks of the big trees, he moved quietly. He was counting on finishing his search before the police sirens split the quiet of the evening.

The moon shone fitfully through the clouds, and there in the horses' burial plot rose the white shaft of the famous racer, Tahlanheka I.

A shabby figure stooped low above the slight mound. A man was fumbling about in the hollow of the shaft. He gave a satisfied grunt and rose.

Ranny leaped upon him, knocking him flat.

"If you move I'll shoot," he said. Ranny's hands went swiftly over the prostrate man's pockets, and he took out a gun. He turned the man over, so that his face could play upon his face.

"Fetten!"

"I ain't done nothin', Mr. Todd. Honest I ain't."

"Get up! What were you doing there at the monument?"

"No-nothin'." In the glare of the flashlight Fetteen's face showed a sickening, greenish cast, and his voice shook.

"I'll shoot you like a dog, Fetteen, if you don't speak up. Strange words for Ranny, who had never wanted to kill even a mouse. He pushed the gun into Fetteen's ribs.

"Don't!"

"You took the ransom money out of there, didn't you?"

"N-no! I don't know nothin' about no money. Honest, Mr. Todd."

"Now, look here, Fetteen. There's somebody in this besides you. If you tell the truth, you won't be punished as much as if you lie. You know that, don't you? The police are up there at the house. If they take you into town and men know you helped in kidnapping Miss Randolph, they'll take you away from the law and hang you by the neck—till you're dead!" His voice so tense and deep brought a shiver to Fetteen.

"I didn't have nothin' to do with Miss Randolph. I don't know nothin' about it," he cried. "All I did was to tell the Major where a good hidin' place for a small box would be that nobody'd ever know. I told him about this place. Then night before last I got word to come and get the box and keep it at my place until it was needed for."

"Start to the house," Ranny commanded, turning him in the direction. Just as they came into the circle of lights from the living-room window, a siren sounded, and in another moment police were spilling out of the car.

"This man should be handcuffed," Ranny said, turning Fetteen over to them. "Will one of you come with me?"

Ranny retraced his steps back to the shaft in the burial plot. The patrolman who followed him stood by while Ranny put his hand into the hollow. It was empty. He exclaimed suddenly as he stepped into soft loam. Some one had been digging around the base of the shaft. It was in two parts, and together the men heaved at the rectangular base. It moved aside easily.

Ranny held his flashlight as the other man pushed aside the loose top soil. "I know what it is," Ranny said grimly. "The gold ingots!"

When Ranny reached the house he was out of breath. The mystery of the gold ingots had been cleared up. He called out and Fetteen had been the link between Louie and the payment of the ransom. Fetteen had lied about telling Towne where to have the ransom money place. He had worked hand-in-hand with Louie on that point. He might have told the Major where to have the gold hidden after the plane had gone without it.

The Major must have been frantic to find that his plans about the plane had gone bad. He had been a fool, all along.

Fetteen broke down in front of Tamar. He said: "Remember that day I asked you 'not go back over the Cricket Hill road? I knowed they're goin' to take the gold. Honest, I didn't know how it'd turn out."

Tamar looked at him pityingly. Why had they used any one so ignorant as Fetteen? Perhaps they had thought by this very simplicity that he would not be able to figure out anything.

She heard Ranny at the door and flew to meet him. "Ranny!"

He stood there in the light of the old chandelier grinning at her. "I hated to dig it up without you, Tam. I found the treasure!"

"What do you mean?" she asked breathlessly. "Not . . . ?"

"Yep! Real treasure." He whispered into her ear. "The gold ingots. Better than any pirate buried on any deserted island."

Tamar touched his hand. There was blood on it where the stinging vines of the overhanging bushes at the tunnel door had torn at them. His long fingers were covered with grime.

The next morning Tamar slept late. When she did awaken she felt that she would never like to stir out of the comfort of home again. She stretched luxuriously on her bed. The incidents of last night returned with a rush. She hated to find out what this morning's investigation would bring to light. She wanted tomorrow to be a fresh day without anything to blot out its happiness.

The telephone rang and Tamar picked it up reluctantly. Her face brightened when she heard Selby's voice. Selby had learned last night of her trip into Atlanta to identify Louie and Therese. She wanted to bring new thoughts and plans into Tamar's mind, so that the last few days would lose their hurt.

"Tamar, I'm sending Dick for you right now. I have permission from your father. You're going to come and stay a few days with me. I need you so terribly. I want you to help me with some plans," her voice trembled in its eagerness. "Get Phoebe to pack while you eat breakfast, 'cause Dick's already on his way."

"But Selby! I shouldn't leave just when Dad needs me. Oh, I'd love to come all right, but—"

"You're coming, Tamar," she said masterfully. "If they need you for anything they'll know where you are. I'm not going to let you eat at home and brood. You need me and I need you. Put on your bonnet and dash!" She hung up quickly so there could be no further argument.

Tamar was sorely tempted to go to Pinecrest. It would be fun to share Selby's secret and her plans. It would be nice to escape all of the worry of today's investigations, but she felt that it wasn't exactly fair to slip away and leave her father to go through it alone.

Phoebe's shuffling step was heard at the door and her light tap sounded. "Come in, Phoebe," Tamar sat up on the edge of her bed and stretched her arms high above her head.

"Chile, yo' breakfast aw waitin'. All but yo' toast. Aristotle am bringin' up yo' tray so's yo' can eat whilst I pack yo' bags." She marched firmly toward the closet.

"I'm not going, Phoebe, so you might as well get my place with Dad's in the breakfast room."

"Dat man been gone so long ago dat de wheel tracks am growin' cent'ry plants by dis time," Phoebe grinned at her. "He say yo' muste 'yerf out da bed and git to Pinecrest spontan'ly. He done told Mist' Dick to drag yo' by de ha' on yo' ha'ld, if yo' objects."

Tamar laughed. "Put one over on me?" She sighed comfortably. "I'll dash through a shower, Phoebe. Lay out my black costume suit will you? She pulled off her pajama jacket as she hurried into the bathroom and turned on the shower, testing its temperature.

"Fie! Fie! O' times a comin' back!" Phoebe's big eyes closed a moment in thankfulness. "Look lak things goin' be okay-dokay, Tamar honey." She held up Tamar's white formals and eyed them critically. She slipped them back into their cellophane bags and carefully placed them in the big case. "Miss Selby boun' to hab a pa'ty o' three!"

Phoebe leaned against the door-frame and looked for a moment into Miss Maria's room. She shook her head and said softly, "Good thing, Miss Ma's, dat yo' watchin' dat good Lawd 'bout takin' ca' ob her. She's been needin' 'powful lot o' 'tenshun dese days."

Phoebe opened the chest and took out a pile of satin lingerie. Soft peach colored silks, lovely lace and pastel ribbons. Phoebe laid her black hand on them cressantly. "No sorte den mah baby's sof' cheek," she crooned. "Dat you, Stote? Ah'll take dat. Now, yo' bettah skin back down dem sta's 'de leaves grows back on de trees." She set the tray down on the night table and lifted the lid of the little silver coffee pot.

"Dat's good coffee. Phoebe. Ah'n' s'prised dat yo' still knows how to cook att' all yo' been through."

Tamar's song had stopped. The silence was portentous. She came back with a great towel wrapped about her, padding over the hall carpet softly. She stood in the doorway of her room, a strange smile lighting her face making it radiant.

Phoebe looked at her over her shoulder. Her gray eyebrows came together quizzically.

Had To Come Home

Says Would Not Allow Washington Columnist To Go To China

Leonard Lyons, in New York Post, says Joe Alsop, the Washington columnist who was captured in Hong Kong, is one of the American sent home, after the Japanese-American exchange of interned civilians. Alsop, who is related to the President, had resigned his commission in the U.S. Navy to work for the Chinese government in Chungking. He, of course, expressed great delight at being liberated, but protested against being sent back to America. He wanted the Japs to set him free at the point nearest to his place of capture, the place to which he will return in any event—China.

Caught Off Guard

Counsel In Damage Suit Won Case By Clever Question

Francis L. Wellman, a former District Attorney of New York city, told this story: A laboring man was suing a Street Railway company for damages arising out of a collision between two surface cars. He had testified that he had been permanently injured and, as a result, could not raise his arm above a point parallel with his shoulder. If his contention were correct, it was a case for heavy damages.

Counsel for the Street Railway, however, was convinced that the man was exaggerating. The difficulty was to prove it. On cross-examination, and after a few sympathetic questions, the man was asked to be good enough to show the jury the extreme limit to which he could raise his arm since the accident. He slowly, and with considerable difficulty, raised his arm to the parallel of his shoulder.

"Now raise the same arm, and show the jury how high you could get it before the accident," quietly continued counsel. Whereupon the witness raised his arm to its full extent above his head, amid peals of laughter from the court and jury.

It speaks well for the careful manner in which Canadian railways are operated and for the attention paid to their roadbeds and equipment that the period of exceptionally heavy traffic through which they are passing is marked by so few serious accidents. This is the more remarkable when it is recognized that many of the men now engaged in railway work may be called on as "green hands."
